Weather

Winter (November–February): Winter brings cool and pleasant weather, with misty mornings and comfortable days. It is a great season for wildlife and bird watching, nature walks and photography. Early mornings can be chilly, so carry a light jacket, fleece or sweater.
Summer (March–May): Summer is warm and dry, with temperatures rising during the day. As water becomes limited, wildlife may be seen near the Cauvery River and other water sources, offering good opportunities for sightings and photography. Carry light cotton clothing, a hat, sunglasses and sunscreen. Early mornings and late evenings are more comfortable for outdoor activities.
Monsoon (June–October): During the monsoon, the forest becomes lush and green, with fresh foliage, misty surroundings and a beautiful Cauvery landscape. Rain can be unpredictable, so carry a light rain jacket, waterproof footwear and rain protection for cameras and other photography equipment.

Best Season for Birding

November to February is ideal for birding in Galibore, with comfortable weather and opportunities to observe riverine and dry-forest species. The Cauvery River surroundings and adjoining forests provide excellent habitats for kingfishers, raptors and other resident birds.
